   Formed in Brighton in 1988, Levellers are an English Folk-Rock band. The name is taken from a political movement in the Civil War (1642-51). Levellers headlined Glastonbury in 1994 and bought a derelict factory in Brighton which they turned into their headquarters. The 'Metway' housed offices, their fan club, a recording studio, rehearsal space and a bar, plus additional spaces for local craft businesses and musicians; this enabled the band to be far more independent from the commercial labels. Beautiful Day is from "Mouth to Mouth", the fifth studio album, released in 1997.
